'Presidential Fatigue'

Stahr Leaves Indiana Post

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. —Dr. Elvis J. Stahr, who saw Indiana University's enrollment nearly double in six years as its president, resigned Saturday but said he hoped to return as a professor after a leave.

The 52-year-old former Secretary of the Army not only presided over an enrollment growth from 23,856 to 47,642, counting regional campuses, but saw a long-downtrodden football team win a share of the Big Ten title and its first Rose Bowl trip last season.

Stahr attributed his decision to step down to "presidential fatigue," saying:

"I simply have 'presidential fatigue,' the result of 24 straight years of working unusually long hours in unusually demanding jobs.

"I think it is far better for both the university and me that I step out of that pressure before, rather than after, it renders me seriously ineffective. I also look forward to seeing far more of my young children."

In accepting Stahr's resignation Saturday morning, the I.U. trustees named Chancellor Herman B. Wells, Stahr's predecessor, as acting president pending selection of a successor. The motion naming Wells was submitted by Trustee John Early of Evansville.

Trustee Harriett Inskeep of Fort Wayne said, "We tried every argument we could think of to reverse his decision."

Dr. Stahr said he was aware that his decision startled friends of the university.

"Nothing" Gone Wrong
"One of my closest friends, when I told him a few days ago that I was going to give up the presidency, interrupted before I could explain further and asked, 'What has gone wrong?'" Dr. Stahr said.

"My answer to him is my answer to any others who may wonder similarly. Nothing has 'gone wrong;' the university is sound and strong, and my own relationships with the trustees, the faculty, the students and my administrative colleagues are warm and deeply satisfying. I simply have 'presidential fatigue.'"

In addition to serving as chief administrative officer of the university, Stahr's duties included joining with the three other state university presidents in seeking constantly larger legislative appropriations to help meet the expenses of expansion.

Big Budget Approved

In this capacity Stahr made frequent appearances before state budget officials and legislative committees to outline project enrollment growth and needed construction.

The trustees Saturday approved a $171.4 million operating budget for the 1969-1971 biennium and forwarded it to the State Budget Agency. The board noted that $48.7 million had been trimmed from the operating requests before forwarding, and said the higher version also will be presented to the 1969 legislature.

In his closing remarks Stahr said the I.U. has become a leader in fighting the problem of racial discrimination.

Hickman Native

Stahr was named I.U. president Nov. 19, 1962, succeeding Dr. Wells, who had headed the university for a quarter of a century. Stahr had been Secretary of the Army under the late President John F. Kennedy since January of 1961.

He is a native of Hickman, Ky., and a 1936 graduate of the University of Kentucky, where he was a Phi Beta Kappa. He studied law as a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford and then practiced law in New York City.

Stahr served in World War II, rising to the rank of lieutenant colonel. He received a diploma in Chinese at Yale University during the war and later was a combat liaison officer in the Far East.

He was appointed to the University of Kentucky law school faculty in 1947 and later its dean and a provost of the university. He also had served as vice chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh and president of West Virginia University.

Stahr was named by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce as one of the nation's 10 outstanding young men in 1948.

AJSS Students 'Pay To Work' Helping Charity Programs

CLINTON, Ky., July 6 — Many high school students across the country are spending this summer working. But how many are paying to work? That's the case with 20 high school students from the American Jewish Society for Service who started a home repair program for the Mississippi River Area Economic Opportunity Council here Wednesday. The students, juniors and seniors in high school with two college counselors, pay $300 for the summer to join the AJSS projects. The New York based organization has other charity programs this summer with Indians in Montana and Utah.

The home repair project, one of 12 OEO Community Action programs in Kentucky's four Western counties, includes painting, roofing and other home repairs.

Students Provide Labor

The home owners, mostly poor, provide the materials and the students provide the labor free.

The students, mostly from the New York City area, will be kept busy. Michael Shapiro, OEO program director here, said he has received over 200 requests for home repairs.

The student-workers, who will be joined by six VISTA (Volunteers In Service To America) volunteers July 10, will spend one week in both July and August in Ballard, Carlisle, Hickman and Fulton counties.

'Kids Are Great'

"The kids are great," raves Michael Lappin, coordinator of volunteers for OEO. "Their involvement and concern for community problems is impressive."

"We have a good bunch," agrees Rhonda Kirschner, a junior at Cornell University who is one of the college counselors. The other counselor is Arthur Janovsky of Brooklyn, a sophomore at Stony Brook, L.I. College.

The project directors for AJSS are Mr. and Mrs. Jules Hirsch who live with the students in an old rambling house in Clinton.

Enthusiasm Shows

The enthusiasm of the student workers was obvious as they painted a house and repaired a porch in Hickman, Saturday.

Shapiro feels lucky to have landed the students' services for the summer. He read about a housing project a AJSS group worked on in Missouri last summer in Vista Volunteer Magazine. He contacted AJSS in New York and scored.

Shapiro hopes the program or "rural renewal" will soon be aided by an OEO grant of $15,000. The money will be used to establish a poor people's loan program whereby poor people can borrow money at low interest rates to buy materials for the home repairs.

A loan board of poor people would be set up in each of the four counties. It would decide who gets the loans and the repayment schedule.

The loan program would bolster the home repairs project which is already rolling along well, thanks to the active interest of high school students in the War on Poverty.

STUDENTS TURN CARPENTERS — Carpentry, directed by a professional employed by the Mississippi River Area Office of Economic Opportunity, is a phase of the home repairs project being carried out by high school student volunteers of the American Jewish Society for Service.

FACELIFTING — Student volunteers of the American Jewish Society for Service give a house in Hickman a much-needed coat of paint as part of home repairs project for the Mississippi River Area Office of Economic Opportunity.

Clinton Stockyard Hailed As Beginning For Farmers

CLINTON, Ky., — Louis F. Ison, president of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation and its marketing association, told an estimated 250 persons attending dedication ceremonies for the Ohio Valley Farm Bureau Stockyard here today that he expects the facility to be "merely the beginning" of an accelerated effort to get better market prices for farmers throughout Kentucky.

Ison told the audience Farm Bureau has been working on improved marketing procedures for many years. But he noted that the Clinton stockyard is the first livestock marketing facility the organization has sponsored and developed.

"If Farm Bureau can bring farmers in Western Kentucky better prices for their hogs and cattle through this new stockyard, then our effort and investment will have certainly been worthwhile," Ison commented.

"But," he added, "let this merely be the beginning of an expanded marketing program aimed at securing a fair price for farmers across Kentucky."

The dedication ceremonies were held at the new stockyard on US 51, two miles south of Clinton.

Activities included a barbecue lunch, entertainment by Dink Embury of Radio Station

WHOP at Hopkinsville, and brief remarks by Ison and Warner E. Clem, president of Ohio Valley Producers Livestock Association.

Also appearing briefly on the program were Wilson Workman, president of Hickman County Farm Bureau; David Gatlin, general manager of Ohio Valley Producers; Willard Carroll, Farm Bureau field service director; and John Koon, Farm Bureau executive secretary.

Clem, in his remarks, echoed Ison's feelings about the occasion.

After noting that Farm Bureau has long supported Ohio Valley Producers in their efforts to assist farmers in the marketing of their products, Clem challenged those present to "let this new stockyard be the start of something big in marketing in Kentucky."

The stockyard was constructed by Kentucky Farm Bureau Marketing Association and will be operated by Ohio Valley Producers on a lease basis. It was financed through the sale of stock, and cost approximately $30,000.

The market can potentially handle 100,000 head of hogs annually, and is also equipped to market cattle.

The market actually opened for business July 1, and since that time has developed a substantial business. This morning, 324 hogs were brought to the market by area farmers.

The stockyard facilities include a 154-by-90-foot building located on 20 acres of land on the east side of US-51. Stock sold to finance the market is expected to be retired in 15-20 years, and the market will then be wholly owned by patron stockholders.

Operation of the stockyard will be guided by an advisory board of livestock producers to be elected by patrons.

Adams Denies He Quit

COLUMBUS, Ky., — Columbus - Belmont Battlefield State Park near here apparently has two managers, one Republican and one Democrat.

That's what John S. Adams says, anyway.

Adams, who has been park manager for the past eight years, taking over the post during the Combs administration, is a Democrat and has resigned as park superintendent, according to Clyde Reed, director of personnel in the state park system.

Adams said Saturday that he has not resigned, although Mrs. Valda Dowdy, a Republican, has been appointed the new park superintendent by Parks Commissioner Robert E. Gable.

According to Adams, Reed approached him last week and asked him if he would resign if "the people and the county Republican party patronage committee" wanted him to.

Adams said that he told Reed he would if this was the case, but that since then he has found that this was not the case.

He said that he did not tell Reed he was going to resign and that he had informed Reed in writing that he did not intend to resign.

Presently, according to Adams, both he and Mrs. Dowdy are on the premises serving as park managers. Mrs. Dowdy's husband, James, has also been hired, according to Adams, and is on the premises directing outside personnel.

Mrs. Dowdy, 26, was formerly an administrative office employee for the Brown Shoe Co. here. She is a native of Pilot Oak in Graves County. Her salary was not disclosed.

Contracts Cancelled By Ford May Be Renewed

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Nunn returned from Milwaukee and took over as chief executive. Ford indicated he had canceled the personal service contracts because of irregularities in them, and because the equipment was not doing the job it was supposed to do.

When Nunn returned to Frankfort, he suggested that Ford give a Franklin County Grand Jury any evidence he had of fraud in connection with the contracts, same as had prevailed for several years.

Nunn and Hazelrigg both are away from Frankfort for the weekend and will not return until Monday.

In a letter to Ford on Wednesday, requested by the acting governor, Hazelrigg made it clear that he was satisfied with the rates under them were the connection with the contracts, same as had prevailed for several years.

Farm Tours Planned In 3 Counties

MURRAY, Ky.—Tours are being scheduled in three counties of the Jackson Purchase to give farmers in the area an opportunity to study no-till planting of corn and double-cropping soybeans following wheat.

Shirley Phillips, specialist in grain crops; Dr. Rudy Schriber, an entomologist; and Robert McClure, an agricultural engineer, all from the University of Kentucky, and Dennis Colson from the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, will be present to discuss the latest information that could be helpful to farmers in producing the 1969 crop for higher yields at lower cost.

The first tour will be in Calloway County beginning at the Harold Houston farm four miles southeast of Murray, Tuesday, July 16, beginning at 1 p.m. On this tour, stops will be at fields of skip-row farming (soybeans grown in corn), no-till corn and double-cropping. The tour will end at Murray State University to inspect corn weed control research plots.

The Ballard County meeting will be held Wednesday, July 17, beginning at 1 p.m. The group will meet at the Ballard County Cooperative Building and tour farms where no-till corn is being grown and also to inspect double-cropping (soybeans following wheat planted without a seedbed preparation). No-till corn fields in Ballard County produced close to 150 bushels per acre last year.

In Fulton County on Thursday, July 18, the group will assemble at the Fulton City Park at 1:30 p.m. and will visit no-till corn fields and double-cropping (soybeans following airplane seeded wheat). One corn field to be inspected may yield close to 150 bushels per acre. Another farm to be visited has averaged close to 40 bushels of wheat and 34 bushels of soybeans per acre the last two years.

The public is invited.

A locked and guarded "Value Room" is maintained by Air Express at every major airport for shipments of high value awaiting delivery.

Hickman Woman Gets Park Post

Mrs. Valda Dowdy of Hickman has been named manager of Columbus - Belmont Battlefield State Park at Columbus, it was announced today by Parks Commissioner Robert E. Gable.

Mrs. Dowdy, 28, replaces John S. Adams, who had held the superintendent's post for eight years.

The new park chief formerly was an administrative office employee for the Brown Shoe Co., at Clinton. She is a native of Pilot Oak in Graves County.

Her salary was not disclosed. Adams reportedly resigned from the post upon the request of Clyde Reed, director of personnel in the state park system. Reed reportedly made the request upon recommendation of the local Republican patronage committee.

Adams earlier declared that many members of the committee were not even aware that his resignation was being sought.

It also was reported that Mrs. Dowdy's husband, James Dowdy, has been employed at the park.

Neither Reed nor Mrs. Dowdy were available for comment.
